LOUISVILLE JOURNAL on the 29th ult., was, the New York Post says, DR. RADWAY'S REMEDIES one of the most prolific and popular novelists of the day. She was widow of Charles Arthur Gere, a military man, and was sixty-one years old at the ilme of har death, which was not nnexpected. LET THE SICK READ AND REFLECT. For more than a year past Mrs. Gore had been almost entirely blind, and a few months since an nsuccessful attempt at an operation to restore her sight was made. The result was disastrous, and Mrs. Gore's constitution never recovered from the painful sheek. Mrs. Gora has written from sixty to seventy works, filling nearly two hundred volumes. It is a curious fact that one of her best known novels, i e "Banker's Wife," was dedicated in Sir John Paul, of the defaulting firm of Strahan, Paul, & ikewise cured. Co. In this story she painted just such a career "MAGNA EST VERITAS ET PRÆVALIBIT." of fraud varnished over with sanctimousness as Sir John Dean Paul's ultimately turned out to e: but in the dedication sha expressly referred to the contrast between the character of her imaginary fraudulent banker and that of the banker to whom she inscribed her novel. Mrs. Gore lost much of her property by the failure of her trusted NIE subscriber having a large stock of Ladies and tent's Winter Book, Shoes, and Guiters on bard. SATURDAY, FEB 23, 1861. We attach very little importance to any eports in the newspapers rolating to Mr. Lincoln's private conversations upon the subject of

of all the solemn and awful responsibilities resting upon him. NAVIGATION OF THE MISSISSIPPI -The United States Collector at the port of New Orlenns has written to the Surveyor at Louis ville 'that 'transportations are continued as usnal, but bonds must be to the State of Lonisiana and executed here"-in New Orleans, The meaning of this, if we understand it, i that Louisiana, as an independent sovereign power, claims the right of eminent domain to control the free navigation of the river for public uses. She will permit goods to be imported into New Orleans as a place of deposit, but the revenues due to the United States mus he paid to her before the goods can be transported to the interior. If we are correct, Collec or Hatch was certainly transmissing a l'allaey to Surveyor Haldeman when he wrote "transportations are continued as usual," for the usual course has been to execute bonds to the United States, made payable here in Louisville, when the transportations were intended for this point. We regard this as the most New Orleans Bulletin, with which, as an a'ly, we have fought the battles of the Union and the Constitution for more than the quarter of a rentury, takes strong grounds against "peaceful coercion" in the collection of the

On Fehrnary 15, 1803, Mr. Ross, of Pennsylvania, in the United States Senate and to a convenient place of deposit for their produce and merchandise in the island of New Orleans;" that the recent infraction of such, 'their unquestionable right," was an aggression hostile to their honor and interest; that it did not comport with the dignity and safety of the Union to hold so important a right by any unertain tenure, and that it materially concerned el American citizens as dwelt upon the Western waters, and was essential to the union, trength, and prosperity of the United States. hat they should obtain complete security for obsolute right." The resolutions of Senator Ross also authorized President Jefferson to other adjacent places, as he might see fit, and employ, in addition, all the military and naval and authorized the Governor to horrow two Senator Ross, upon introducing these resoluions, and the action taken by Kentucky and the other States, had the effect to hasten the urchase of Louisiana in the same year, and the Northern Confederacy just for economy's sake. The United States by this purchase acquired the soil of the present reement of the payment of duties at New Prleans on goods destined for Kentucky, Mis- of the fruits of the Iree of secession.

souri, and other riparian States, let us suppose that Virginia should make the same demand, thus shutting out Maryland and Pennsylvania river, or that little Delaware should secede, fortify the breakwater at Cape Henlopen, and | 110118? levy toll on all imports destined for Pennsylvania and New Jersey through the Delaware Bay and river; or that Mayor Wood had carried out his idea of making New York a free city, and established his own revenue laws for felt for ourglorious old Union? Certainly riot. in 1803 drew a similar suppositional picture, terests of so many as the Mississippi; the river are much greater than the blockade of any Atlantic river would extend to." This conrewarded at all for the stealing he has been doing for that Government during the last two dollars, the revenue accruing to the treasury therefrom to three hundred thousand dollars, and the sale of public lands brought but balf a million dollars. Every man who has hought a farm from the Federal Government in the West, expected the free and unobstructed navigation of the Mississippi. If this is violated, ernment arms. it, would not in conscience be entitled to rele that the enjoyment of it should iffed. be placed beyond all doubt, and that the right would never be secure while the mouth of the Mississippi was exclusively in the hands of those from whose caprice or enmity we had to apprehend coustant interruption and misunderstanding. The importance attached to this question when our country was in its infancy has been immeasurably enhanced as it has grown to manhood, and we have recurred to the former debate in the United States Senate

J. G. Whittier, the bitler hat powerful a spell to abolition poet, is now for compromise. Ab, Whittier, can you ase as powerful a spell to allow the storm as you have done to raise it?

Ask our brethren, North and South, to heal our dissensions and make us one people again.

Ask our brethren North, whose blood comminged in achieving the victories on Eric, Ontario—at Sea; Lundy's Lane, Bridgewater, Raisin, support it, not destray it. Is there one here who would more lightly estimate the obligations of his outh?

The importance attached to this of that State are all for secession. We presume then that the secession cause in Mississippi paper says that the Scotch of that State are all for secession. The right cannot be compromised, for it is as "indisputable," as "unquestionable," as "important," and as "absolute" in 1861 as it was in 1803; while the interests involved in its assertion have increased beyond the wildest imaginings of the most enthusiastic patriota who sixty years ago foreshadowed the greatness of the West, the mighty commerce of the Mississippi valley, and the mamerce of the Mississippi valley and the Miss oth march of empire towards the occidental have to share in a great public calamity.

Mendell Phillips, the abolitionist, made a speech in Boston last Sunday. An immense multitude gathered in front of the hall, and

I have often inquired of myself, what great principle or idea it was that kept this Confederacy solong together. It was not the mere matter of the separation of the colonies from the mother land, but that sentiment in the Decluration of Independence which gave liberty not alone to the people of this country, but, I hope, to the world through all future time. [Great appliance.]

The system upon commerce, and ask, "what right has Government to arrange business so that small houses with moderate means shall be compelled to relinquish it?" The Boston Courier thinks it is highly probable that the true policy may lie between the two extremes.
